She didn't get the book.

MODEL YOUNG MAN GONE.

Joseph Sayers Died Monday Night—Consumption Was Cause of Death. At 11.30 p. m. Monday, September 17, 1906, Joseph Sayers, only son of Robert and Tamar Sayers, died at home of his parents on Jackson street. Quick consumption was cause of his death. He had been troubled with asthma for sometime, which developed into quick consumption. Joseph worked up until two weeks ago last Friday and was only confined to bed three days. He had been in poor health all summer and suffered considerably, but he bore his suffering patiently and bravely.

Joseph Sayers was born at St. Marys, Pa., May 12, 1883, and was 23 years, 4 months and 5 days old at time of death. His parents moved to Reynoldsville eighteen years ago and have since resided here. Joseph was highly esteemed by all who were personally acquainted with him. He was a model young man. Did not have any bad habits and loved his home, preferring to stay there rather than loaf on the streets. He attend church and Sunday school frequently. He found great pleasure in playing on his violin. He is survived by his parents and one sister, Miss Frances Sayers.

Deceased was a member of Mt. Cliff Castle, Knights of Golden Eagle, of Reynoldsville, and members of that society will attend the funeral in a body. E. church, and interment will be made in the Reynoldsville cemetery.

Impose on Good Nature. Rev. J. C. McEntire, blacksmith and M. E. local preacher of this place, is often imposed on, perhaps thoughtlessly, and he submits without complaining. Rev. McEntire supports himself and family by working in his shop. He is frequently called out to conduct funeral services, which he never refuses if possible for him to go, and sometimes he has to hire a livery rig. Now the imposition is this: He loses time in his shop and often has to pay money out of his own pocket for livery hire. People who call him out of town to conduct funeral should at least pay him the livery hire. It is not right to ask him to lose time from his work and pay for livery rig. This notice is not published by request of Rev. McEntire or any of his friends, in fact it is published without asking Rev. McEntire's permission to publish it. We simply publish it in justice to a man who is frequently imposed on.

Miss Isabel Arnold, well known and highly esteemed lady of Reynoldsville, who recently returned from a trip in Europe, has accepted a position as assistant piano instructor in the Birmingham Female School of Birmingham, Pa. She is well qualified to fill the position she has accepted in the Birmingham school and will make a successful teacher in that institution. Miss Arnold went to Birmingham Monday. She will be especially missed in the Presbyterian church, as she was one of the most zealous and faithful workers in the church, Sunday school and Christian Endeavor Society.

SCOTT McCLELLAND DEAD.

Was Well Known in Jefferson County, Having Filled Several Important Offices in the County. Scott McClelland, a former citizen and merchant of Reynoldsville, died at his home in Brookville at 4.30 p. m. Monday, Sept. 18, 1906. He had been in poor health for several years. Funeral service was held at his late home in Brookville at 7.30 last evening, conducted by Rev. Underwood, pastor of the Brookville Baptist church, and the body was taken to Beechwoods cemetery this morning for interment.

Scott McClelland was a son of Oliver and Mary Ann McClelland, deceased. He was born in Beechwoods the latter part of June, 1843, and was 63 years old last June. In 1884 he was married to Annie Matthews, who survives him. He is also survived by two sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Eliza N. Hoyer, of Bisbee, North Dakota, Mrs. Hilleman, of New Kensington, Pa., George B. McClelland, of DuBois, Alex and Joseph McClelland, of Beechwoods.

It is doubtful if there is another man better known in Jefferson county than was Scott McClelland, he having served two years as commissioners' clerk, one term as county treasurer and two terms as prothonotary. His last term expired in 1890 and after that he embarked in the hardware business at Reynoldsville with E. D. Seelye and J. K. Johnston, which continued several years. He was also proprietor of a clothing store in this place several years. He had been a director in the First National bank of Reynoldsville from the time it was organized, in 1893, until his health failed. He was vice-president of the bank a number of years, and after the death of Lawyer C. Mitchell he was elected president of the bank. Deceased was a member of G. A. R., I. O. O. F., K. of P. and B. O. P. Elks.

Death of Claude Mumford. Claude LeRoy Mumford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mumford, of DuBois, was killed on the Pacific railroad, twenty miles from Springfield, Missouri, Tuesday, September 11, 1906. The body was brought to home of his parents in DuBois and funeral services were held Sunday morning. A short service was held in DuBois conducted by Dr. A. J. Meek, of the Reynoldsville, Baptist church, assisted by Rev. J. A. Curry, of the DuBois United Presbyterian church. The body was then taken to Emerickville where a sermon was preached by Dr. Meek in the M. E. church and interment made in the cemetery at that place. There was a very large attendance at the funeral both in DuBois and Emerickville.

Claude Mumford was born September 10, 1880, making him but one day past his 26th birthday when killed. Six or seven years ago he lived in Reynoldsville and while here became associated with the Baptist church, being baptized by Dr. Meek March 13, 1900. Afterwards he went to DuBois and was employed on the railroad there until the past spring, when he went west, going first to Mexico and later returning to the union. At time of death he was employed as fireman on the Southern Pacific railroad. The circumstances of his death are not exactly known, as he was alone when the accident occurred. It is supposed that he slipped and fell from his engine, his head striking a rail, causing instant death. The train went for several hours before he was missed and a searching party sent back over the route. His body was found in a pool of water where it had laid during the nine hours after the accident.

An Explanation. Cwing to the unusually large number of pupils enrolled we are obliged to rearrange our assignment of pupils to the different rooms. Some will be placed in rooms lower in number but in no instance is there any demotion. The pupils will all have the same grade of work as before.

All parents whose children are effected by this readjustment will please note that a change of room and teacher does not indicate a change in grade. C. J. SCOTT.

U. S. NAVAL REVIEW.

Trip of the "Colorado" from New York City to Oyster Bay. Duncan M. Dunsmore, Sr., of West Reynoldsville, received a letter Saturday which was written Sept. 9 at Newport, R. I., by his son, Duncan M. Dunsmore, Jr., an electrician on the cruiser, Colorado, in which Duncan gives an account of the trip of the "Colorado" from New York City to Oyster Bay, which we publish below:

We left Tompkinsville at 1.00 p. m. Wednesday, Aug. 29, and had a pleasant run until we ran into a fog off Montauk Point at midnight. At 1.00 p. m. Thursday the fog lifted and we proceeded down the sound. We arrived at Smithtown Bay, eight miles east of Oyster Bay, at 8.00 p. m. that day. There we found the new battleships, "Louisiana," a sister ship to the "Connecticut," and the sister ships "Rhode Island," "New Jersey" and "Virginia," also three collars, one destroyer and supply ship, Colite. The next day the following ships came in: Battleships, Maine, Missouri, Kentucky, Kearsarge, Alabama, Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa; protected cruisers, Minneapolis, Denver, Des Moines and Lacoma; destroyers, Lawrence, Popkins, Worden, Stewart, MacDonough and Truxtton; troop ship, Yankee.

Saturday was spent in painting ships and cleaning up. Sunday the entire fleet moved down to Oyster Bay and were later joined by the monitors "Puritan," "Nevada," "Arkansas," "Florida," torpedo boats, "Tingey," "Whipple," "Morris" and three others, also "Dolphin," "Yankee," two submarines and their tender, the "Unia", Monday, Sept. 3rd, we were reviewed by the President passing up and down between the lines on the Mayflower. Each ship fired 21 guns as the review started and 21 again as he passed. The papers in writing of it said there was more noise than at a naval battle. We used three pounders only for saluting, what would they say if they heard a 12 inch gun? A great many excursion boats were around, but were not allowed inside the fleet limits, to their great disappointment.

That evening all the battleships and armored cruisers were illuminated by stringing lights (electric) along the rail, stacks, masts and six foot letters of the ships came on the bridge. We electricians certainly had our hands full rigging it up, but as I looked at the beautiful sight that evening I thought it was about worth it, as it certainly was a fine sight, and one that I will never forget. DUNCAN, JR.

Killed by Accident. Frank Austin Goss, the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Goss, who live west of Falls Creek, was instantly killed Friday afternoon while playing in the barn. He was found lying on the barn floor when one of his brothers went to the stable to hitch up a team. It is supposed that the little one attempted to climb up a hay rack that was leaning along the wall and pulled it over on top of him. The only mark was a bruise on the back of the head. Dr. Booher was summoned from Falls Creek, but nothing could be done as death had taken place instantly. The little one was three years and five months old.

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Goss home at 3 o'clock, burial in Falls Creek cemetery—DuBois Express. Amos Goss, who is one of the school directors of Winslow township and is proprietor of the greenhouse near Panconst, is well known in Reynoldsville and Winslow township.

A Promising Investment. Russell Conwell, says: "People have no business to be poor." He also says: "Whenever there is a need there is a fortune." Reynoldsville has a need which other people are supplying. They are making a fortune by furnishing what we have failed to procure for ourselves. Our annual cost for natural gas exceeds fifty thousand dollars. Is this not a stupendous drain on our finances? Is there not a fortune in it for the people who recognized our needs? If by spending one-half our annual cost in drilling we can procure enough to supply our own needs, is there not a fortune in it for us. Do you know of a more promising investment? Think it over, no doubt Conwell is right. "We have no business to be poor." Our acres of Black Diamonds are being carried away and the profits enjoyed by non-residents. Let us seek the "Acres of Diamonds" that still remain undiscovered at home. WILL CALLE.
